

Practitioners of AI-driven Strategic Project Management

12840 S Kirkwood
Stafford, TX-77477
Houston, Texas

March 16th, 2026

PRESS RELEASE

PM-Strategist Corner, the organizers of the “Summit-Leadership for Economic Innovation”, in Houston, Texas, are excited to announce that Marblism has officially joined as a sponsor, reinforcing the event’s commitment to innovation, leadership, and the future of technology-driven business operations.

Marblism is an emerging leader in the AI productivity space, providing organizations with AI-powered digital employees designed to support core business functions such as lead generation, content creation, email management, and operational workflow automation. These AI team members operate continuously in the background, helping businesses scale operations and maintain consistent productivity without the complexity of hiring additional staff. [OBJ]

PM Strategist Corner, through the event will bring together project leaders, strategists, executives, and innovators who are shaping the next generation of project leadership and digital transformation. Marblism delivers specialized AI roles through its innovative platform, including executive assistants, social media managers, SEO writers, customer support agents, and sales outreach specialists; allowing entrepreneurs and organizations to delegate repetitive work and focus on high-value strategy and growth. [OBJ]

By partnering with PM Strategist Corner, Marblism will help highlight how AI-enabled teams can empower modern organizations to operate more efficiently, respond faster to market opportunities, and unlock new levels of productivity.

“We are thrilled to welcome Marblism as a sponsor of this event,” said the PM Strategist Corner organizing team. “Their commitment to transforming business operations through AI aligns perfectly with our mission of equipping leaders with tools and insights that shape the future of project management and strategic execution.”

Participants attending the event will gain exposure to cutting-edge insights on leadership, project strategy, and the rapidly evolving world of AI-driven business transformation. The collaboration underscores a shared belief that the future of work lies at the intersection of human leadership and intelligent automation.

More information about the event can be found at: <https://pm-strategistcorner.com>

